TUMULTUOUS WELCOME IS GIVEN MACARTHUR IN MELBOURNE

Jap Heavy Cruiser Is Sunk by Bombers Of United Nations

BY ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

General Douglas MacArthur, greeted by wildly cheering thousands, declared in Melbourne today he had every confidence of "ultimate success" in the battle to crush Japan's far-flung invasion armies, but cautioned against too eager hopes for an immediate Allied grand offensive.

As the hero of Bataan began to plan strategy to wrest the initiative from Japan, a war department bulletin reported that defenders of the Philippines still were carrying on the MacArthur tradition of aggressive defense.

A Washington communique said American and Filipino troops made a surprise attack on Japanese forces near Zamboanga on Mindanao island, 600 miles south of Bataan, and inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy.

While great crowds accorded General MacArthur a hero's welcome, United Nations airmen were officially credited with sinking another Japanese heavy cruiser in a daring raid on Rabaul, New Britain.

Australia's prime minister, John Curtin, said the cruiser—the 64th enemy warship sunk or damaged in the Far Pacific theatre—was sent to the bottom, smoking and aflame, by bombers which attacked through violent anti-aircraft fire in daylight, beat off enemy pursuit planes and returned to their base intact.

It was the 27th on the list of Japanese warships and merchant vessels sunk or damaged in less than two weeks in the battle for the approaches to Australia.

In Melbourne, General MacArthur acknowledged the crowd's tumultuous welcome with a brief, straight-from-the-shoulder address.

"I have every confidence in the ultimate success of our joint cause," he said, "but success in modern war requires something more than courage and willingness to die."

"It requires careful preparation x x x. My faith in them is complete x x x. In any event, I shall do my best. I shall keep a soldier's faith."

Other developments:
Burma—British headquarters reported that British troops fighting on the Irrawaddy river front had driven the Japanese from Letpadan, key rail junction 150 miles north-west of Rangoon.

The British also announced that 700 Japanese had been killed, wounded in heavy fighting 35 miles south of Tounoung, an important British defense point, when Chinese cavalry and infantry attacked Japanese armored cars, infantry and cavalry.

The battle occurred on the Sittang river, on the left wing of the British-Chinese line defending central Burma.

Tokyo gave a conflicting version of the fighting below Tounoung, asserting that Japanese vanguards crushed a tank-led counter-attack and now seriously threaten Tounoung.

Tokyo broadcast further claimed that Japanese troops had occupied British defense positions at Letpadan.

Australia—Allied fliers lashed out in a new assault on Japanese bases north of Australia, attacking enemy-occupied Saumlaki, on Dutch Yamdena island, 300 miles from the Australian mainland.

Emperor Hirohito's warplanes killed a civilian and damaged some aircraft in a 50-bomb attack yesterday on the airfield of Broome, a West Australian port, and made fruitless raids on the town of Derby, 75 miles to the northeast, a communique said.

A third-hand Axis report relayed by the Vichy radio said "a Japanese naval squadron which had previously been observed in waters west of Australia is now only a day's voyage from the Australian coast."

Red army legions, joining winter and spring drives in a single offensive pattern, were reported by the Vichy radio today to have fought their way into Saraya Russa, the base of the encircled 16th German army.

Meanwhile the harbor defenses of Manila bay were reported under "extremely heavy" shelling from Japanese artillery, which included 240-millimeter (about eight-inch) guns but the war department said little damage of military consequence was done.

In Australia, the war department announced, Prime Minister John Curtin had appointed Lieutenant General George H. Brett, U. S. army, to command of Australian as well as United States air forces operating on the southern continent.

Washington, March 21—(P)—The war department reported today a surprise raid by American and Philippine troops on Japanese forces near Zamboanga on the Philippine island of Mindanao in which heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy.

American and Philippine losses were described in a communique as negligible.

CCC CARETAKER IS ARRESTED ON LARCENY CHARGE

Inspector for Third Corps Area Alleged Suspended Official Confiscated Clothing and Other Articles From Camp

HAS JOB WITH STATE

Carlisle, March 21—(P)—Bernard S. Billett, suspended caretaker of the Pine Grove Furnace CCC camp where materials were reported burned recently, today was charged with larceny of clothing and other articles from the camp.

J. A. Dmsche, a CCC inspector for the Third Corps Area at Baltimore, preferred the charges before Justice of the Peace William P. Dosh. Billett was held under $500 bail for hearing March 27.

The caretaker was suspended following charges that clothing was burned at the abandoned Pine Grove camp and equipment permitted to rust and deteriorate. CCC officials said only a small parcel of equipment was burned because it would cost more to transport it to the supply depot than it was worth.

G. Albert Stewart, state secretary of forests and waters, early this week authorized hiring of Billett by forestry officials pending his induction in the armed forces. Stewart commented at that time:

"Nowhere has the charge been made, nor does it appear that Bernard A. Billett is in any degree responsible for these admitted offenses against the national war effort. His only offense appears to be that he revolted at such practices and discussed them with others x x x that he rescued valuable material from the flames to which it had been consigned."

PITTSBURGH WOMAN TAKES LIFE BY GAS

Pittsburgh, March 21—(P)—Coroner William McClelland reported today that Mrs. Agnes Gearhart, 37, of suburban Bellevue, was found dead in her home, her body over an open gas pipe and her face covered with a blanket.

Mrs. Gearhart left a long note to her husband, begging forgiveness and citing a recent illness for her action, Coroner McClelland said.

New York, March 21—(P)—Six shipwrecked seamen can thank their lucky stars and William Lowans' eyes for their rescue at sea after drifting 48 hours on a life raft from their torpedooed ship.

Lowans, 18-year-old former Mercersburg, Pa., high school senior, who joined the navy two days after the attack on Pearl Harbor "because it got me," told this story:

"One evening about dusk, we ran into a small gale, with rain and fog. I was in the sky lookout."

"I couldn't see them, but with my naked eye I thought I saw a yellow box three miles to starboard."

"I reported to the bridge, and as we came closer to the object we saw it was an orange-colored raft with five ship survivors. As we drew alongside it we saw another man lying in the bottom."

"The men, of course, were very happy to see us. They made the signal 'V' with their fingers. They had been adrift for about 48 hours and were pretty played out."

For all of Lowans' remarkable eyesight, he can't remember the color of his girl's eyes. She's 16-year-old Emma Byers of Mercersburg.

Details of Spectacular Trip To Australia Are Revealed

MacArthur and 21 Companions Make First Leg of Daring Dash From Bataan on Four High-Powered Speed Boats

DESTROYER SIGHTED

London, March 21—(P)—Four high-powered speedboats carried Gen. Douglas MacArthur and 21 companions on their daring dash from the Philippines to Australia, successfully dodging a Japanese destroyer which threatened to intercept them, Reuters reported today from Melbourne.

Details of the spectacular trip were disclosed by Brig. Gen. Hugh J. Casey, who traveled with MacArthur, the news agency declared. The trip occupied two days and ended at an undisclosed island rendezvous, where two big planes were waiting to take the party on to Darwin, Casey was quoted as saying.

Arrangements for the journey were in utmost secrecy. The four 70-foot speedboats—known as "Q-boats"—were made ready at different points on Bataan peninsula and loaded with luggage and equipment.

At 1 p. m. on March 11, Casey was quoted as saying, the speedboats started up their engines and sped out to sea under the very noses of the Japanese.

They traveled throughout the night through moderate seas without sighting a Japanese ship or plane.

At about 2:15 a. m. the boat in which General Casey was traveling broke down and he was transferred to another vessel, which went on her way with the other two.

Harrisburg, March 21—(P)—Instead of facing a possible rationing of milk, "we have adequate supplies if we return the producer a price which permits him to meet the increased cost of production, particularly for feed and labor," the commonwealth reported today.

This assurance came from the Milk Control Commission as it increased from 12 to 14 cents a quart, the retail milk price in most of Washington, Green and Fayette counties. The order applies to area three, the southwestern dairy district.

Numbers Game With $10,000,000 Annual Take Appears to Have Been Broken With Arrests Made in 36 Eastern Cities

STAGED BY THE F.B.I.

Washington, March 21—(P)—A numbers game with a $10,000,000 annual take appeared to be all over today with the arrest of three score persons in smoothly timed raids in 36 eastern cities.

Acting on bench warrants issued Thursday in Wilmington, Del., former headquarters of the gambling ring, agents of the FBI simultaneously picked up half of the 122 indicted men and women.

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, described Louis Cohen, said to have financial interest in Miami, Fla., night clubs, as the "moving figure of this ring."

With Louis, the FBI named his brothers, Joseph, Harry, Frank and Charles, as leaders, along with Seymour Burns, a Cohen brother-in-law and Benjamin Lustgarten, associated with a Miami loan firm.

FOUR DIE IN CRASH OF AN ARMY BOMBER

Greenfield, Ind., March 21—(P)—Four army fliers were killed near here last night in the crash and explosion of a two-motor bomber apparently crippled by engine trouble.

The victims, the only occupants of the airplane, were Lieut. Paul F. Hawkins, Ponca City, Okla., pilot; Lieut. James P. Van Story, Lincoln, N. C., co-pilot; Lieut. Lawrence J. Rux, Henderson, N. C., navigator; and Sgt. Robert W. Morgan, Uniontown, Pa., mechanic.

The bomber left Patterson Field, near Dayton, O., on a routine operations flight at 4:39 p. m. (EWT) and was due back at 6:30. It was reported to have circled over Anderson and Greenfield, apparently in distress, before the crash.

PHANGS IN JAIL
Pittsburgh, March 21—(P)—Allegheny County Jail Sergeant Henry Clark reported today that Benjamin Cross, 35, of Pittsburgh, was found hanged from a cell door last night. Clark said Cross left a note to a brother asking forgiveness. The victim was wanted in Dayton, O., on a worthless check charge, Clark said.

MAN IS KILLED FOR BELITTLING BRITAIN
Philadelphia, March 21—(P)—A worker in a defense factory paid with his life, Detective Thomas Blong reported today for saying to a British sailor: "British ships are always running away."

The sailor, Alfred Thompson, 21, was charged with homicide by a British sailor, who was charged with homicide by a British sailor, who was charged with homicide by a British sailor.

Blong said Thompson, Coull and Herman Weigand, 48, got into an argument in a taproom. When Weigand said "British ships ought to be out there with our boats, knocking off the Japs," Thompson swung and hit him, the detective related. Weigand was dead when examined at a hospital.

Dogs Called Off By Uniontown Woman
Uniontown, March 21—(P)—Workmen employed on a $1,000,000 defense housing project received a go-ahead signal today in the form of an announcement that Mrs. Mabel Mahon, 55, and her ten pedigreed dogs would move off the site of the project.

Mrs. Mahon, whose refusal for several weeks to move from her barn-like home had delayed excavation work, said she had rented a room at a private home where a barn would be available for her pets.

For the past decade Mrs. Mahon lived in a former barn she rented for $4 a month. Her dogs occupied one section of the barn and her husband, Thomas, from whom she was separated, lived in another. Mahon said she expects to move into an abandoned coke oven.

STATE MAPPING SALVAGE DRIVE
Harrisburg, March 21—(P)—County salvage committee chairmen, told by Governor James that they were directing forces which will junk Japan and Germany, made ready today for a statewide drive before the middle of April to gather waste materials for industries busy on war orders.

The advisory salvage committee of the State Defense Council instructed county groups to sponsor a Salvage Week sometime before April 15, as part of the national effort to collect scrap metals and other material that may be reclaimed and turned into war goods.

Urging county committees to "keep the furnaces of industry red hot with a maximum flow of waste materials," Council Director Dr. A. C. Marts told the workers to dig the scrap out of cellars, backyards and attics and put it in the hopper or production of warfare tools for soldiers at the front.

John S. Rice, chairman of the advisory group, said the campaign is "not a one-week, one-month or one-year drive, but a long-term program which will continue for the duration of the war."

Salvage groups have been organized in all but five of Pennsylvania's 67 counties, reported Colley S. Baker, advisory committee secretary.

Washington, March 21—(P)—Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Pennsylvania Democratic national committeewoman and long-time advocate for equal rights, protested today because the highest rank in the proposed women's auxiliary army corps would be only that of a major.

Associated Press Foreign Writer Speculates on Route to Be Taken When Grand Offensive on Mikado's Realm Is Attempted

GREAT CIRCLE IS CITED

New York, March 21—(P)—America's military leaders are giving increasing indication that the eventual offensive against Japan will come from more than one direction, lending weight to speculation that one assault may follow the pathway of Japan's northern islands, the Kuriles.

General Douglas MacArthur, in Australia, speaks of an offensive from the south. "I came through the Japanese front in the East Indies and I will return."

Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stilwell, in Chungking, pictures "American and Chinese troops in Tokyo together"—the climax of a drive from the west.

Evidence grows also that neither in Washington nor Tokyo was the northern route, the great circle along the Pacific rim, been forgotten.

There is a potential battle ground much closer home for both sides than the Australian zone—7,000 miles from San Francisco, 4,000 from Tokyo. Thus far the north has been peaceful but with the advent of spring in the northern hemisphere it will demand increasing attention.

It was promptly established that the submarine took on no supplies and did not attempt to open communication with anyone on land. The sailor was suffering from a gangrenous wound in the leg, possibly from shellfire during a surface action against American coastal shipping. His commander apparently put him ashore with instructions to seek the surgical attention he could not be given on board ship.

The state department immediately sent to the French government, through Ambassador William D. Leahy, a warning that the United States would not permit the use of French western hemisphere ports by Axis warships or planes for any purpose.

Vichy was told that unless she gave categorical assurances that no Axis submarine or war plane would be allowed to visit any French western hemisphere possession the United States would be compelled to take such action as would protect American interests.

The Vichy government subsequently gave categorical assurances that no Axis vessels or planes would be allowed to enter (Turn to Page Seven)

MINERS SAVE BY "DOUBLING UP"
Harrisburg, March 21—(P)—About half of Pennsylvania's miners drive to work but they are "doubling up" and seeking bus and train transportation to meet the tire and car rationing situation, Mines Secretary Richard Maize said today.

The Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association, composed of 50 operators of 92 coal mines employing 29,000 workers, reported that approximately 16,000 miners drive to work daily in 6,240 automobiles.

The association said that these cars average two and one-half passengers each, and estimated an average of five months of wear remained in their tires.

The department mailed questionnaires on transportation by miners to soft and hard coal operators several weeks ago and is compiling replies as they are received.

The Anthracite Institute, with headquarters in New York, has sent similar letters to its 45 members in Pennsylvania, but has not yet completed its survey.

"Women should have a top rank of major-general, too, in the interest of equal rights."

The bill as introduced by Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) and passed by the house, calls for a director of the corps, and representative of the war department have said the proposed rank would be that of major.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Gary Cooper looks like my idea of what a big-league baseball player should look like and I guess it's not a wrong idea at that.

The boys out here who are the real McCoy—Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, Lefty O'Doul and Mark Koenig and Bill Dickey—won't give me any argument on it, either. There's not one of them that doesn't think our Gary is a swell fellow.

But if you recall that Gary played a baseballer of sorts in "Meet John Doe" and if you comment on his rangy ease, his apparent inexperience as he did a wind-up or practiced a catch, you find out how little you know about diamond "form." To your surprise you learn that John Doe was "pretty stiff" and not at all convincing, and you run smack into the problem Gary's having played the role of the late Lou Gehrig in "Pride of the Yankees."

FRANK ("LEFTY") O'DOUL, manager of the San Francisco Seals and trainer of the DiMaggio boys, is technical adviser on the film and personal coach to Cooper. All he had to figure, taking over the latter job, was how to make Gary, a right-hander, throw and bat like Lou, a southpaw. Weeks before the picture began under Sam Wood's direction, Lefty had Cooper warming up.

In a way he had a break in that

Gary had no youthful baseball habits to unlearn. At the sandlot period of Cooper's life, Gary was in school in England. When he came back, the other boys were ahead of him and baseball never figured much on Gary's schedule. So Lefty started from scratch—three hour sessions daily. He started Gary throwing pebbles, underhand, overhand, then corks, then a ball. He had Cooper bowl left-handed, punch the bag ditto. He had him study Babe Herman, coast league southpaw, both in life and in slow-motion movies. When Cooper went hunting in Mexico, Lefty had him take bats, balls and gloves along, with Bob Taylor for practice partner. When Cooper went to Sun Valley, Lefty went along himself.

TODAY Gary's left-handed batting is the baseball McCoy's agree, quite satisfactory. His throwing, considering he's a southpaw by quick training only, will do it (as one of the boys suggests) it's shown in quick enough flashes.

Of the real Yankees, only Babe Ruth—still the same old Babe at 48 though he complains that sound stage routine wears out his legs—is a movie veteran. Babe made silent pictures, and some talking shorts, but he's still not "acting." Bill Dickey, the Yankee catcher and Lou Gehrig's best friend in life, also is playing himself, but he's still a ball player, says Bill. "This acting's not for me."

Hold On to That Water Pump; It May Come in Handy Again Before March, 1942 Goes Into Records

WAR SITUATION IS REVIEWED BY RETIRED OFFICER

This country of ours is faced with the gravest situation and responsibility of any nation in all history, in the opinion of Major George Fielding Eliot, retired army officer and widely recognized military strategist, who spoke at the Woman's Club last night as the final number on this year's Y. M. C. A. lecture course. The question period which followed showed clearly the close attention paid to his words.

His outline of the early events of the war provided an understanding background for 1942 needs and brought him to the surprise provided by the Russian offensive and Churchill's strategy in giving up chances of victory in Libya, together with the United States entry into the conflict at the close of 1941.

Major Eliot spoke of Japan's chances for providing the 50 per cent replacements necessary in every month of the war she fights on an equatorial triangle 3,000 miles on a side, with not one or two fronts, but many, and the desperate effort that will be made this spring by both Japan and Germany.

Returning to the statement that all depends upon what we do right now, he stated flatly that we need more than the realization that teamwork is necessary; we need the flaming heart that will carry us into an offensive, using our limited means to carry that offensive to the enemy whenever and wherever we can reach him, keeping him so busy and worried that he cannot concentrate his own forces to deal a knockout blow.

The Major pointed out that the possibility of wounding up 1942 with Germany still unable to reach the oil fields of the Caucasus and Middle East, with the Russians still hunting and the Japs no farther than Malaya, will have paved the way for an Allied victory, and then it is a question of how hard we are going to fight.

He termed the chances of a sudden Axis cracking as merely wishful thinking and reiterated that the more we put into the war this year the surer we are of not losing the battle.

HUMMELSTOWN FLYER KILLED IN VIRGINIA

Quantico, Va., March 21.—(P)—Lieutenant Ralph Earle Walter, Jr., 21, of Hummelstown, Pa., and Lieutenant Donald Edgar Folsom, 24, of Bell, Calif., were killed Thursday when their marine corps plane crashed on the corps reservation.

Officers said the plane failed to come out of a power dive while they were dive bombing and exploded in a wooded area.

MYSTERIOUS FLARES OFF SEATTLE SHORE

Seattle, March 21.—(P)—Reports of mysterious flares at sea and on shore are coming in continuously at the 12th Naval District headquarters here.

In a statement concerning the report, the navy today said: "Surface and air patrol offshore has been continuing with vigilance, and no enemy contacts had been made to the date of the report's release."

If you had use for a water pump in your basement this week, it might be a good idea to keep same on hand for immediate use, at least until the end of this month. A recollection of facts from past floods in the community offers this warning, because in the history of spring floods never has the Allegheny nor the Conewango reached its peak until after March 25. That will be Wednesday, and if the all clear signal is showing then, you can give the pump back to your neighbor.

It was an interesting assignment for the writer of this piece to resort to the annals and recall some of the highlights of Warren's outstanding floods of other years. It offered some consolation in the fact that this year's high water up to now wouldn't have filled a bathtub in comparison with that of 1892, 1913, 1916 or 1936.

Therefore, unless the worst is yet to come, you can mark 1942 down in the records as the year which saw mildly rampant waters overflow the banks, but do little damage, and you might add a vote of thanks for that.

There were no definite records of the flood of '92, but reminiscing articles in 1913 newspapers disclose it was a real one, outdone only by an even earlier flood back in 1865, which still stands as the ancient books as the worst Warren ever realized.

However, since 1865 was before the time of most of us, little concern is taken with the water in that year, and 1892 was finally surpassed before 1913 high waters retreated, thus, we review for you the floods of 1913, 1916 and 1936.

Things started moving in general on March 25, the river spreading and getting steadily deeper until it reached a crest of 15 feet, eight inches, and the good people of the south side and the west side moving to the homes of friends on the higher points of town. There were washouts at Riverside and Edgewater, between Warren and Jamestown, causing discontinuance of nearly a week of the Warren-Jamestown street car line. Farms, along the Conewango creek up to and well beyond Russell, were inundated early and cattle had to be taken from barns to the hillsides where everything remained high and dry.

Russell was hit hard with many houses in danger of being washed away. Business places in Warren were filled with water even in the first floor, from the Pennsylvania avenue bridge to Market street, and from the railroad tracks to the city line in the west end. Industry came to almost a complete halt, all plants in the lower areas being completely surrounded. Both the Warren Times and the Warren Evening Mirror were badly damaged, the Mirror being forced to publish in the Times building at one stage, only able to do this through the courtesy of Ross Walker, when water rose so high in the Mirror composing room that it was impossible to use machinery.

The Conewango creek was the highest ever recalled by even the most veteran citizens. Railroads were stopped, part of the D. A. V. & P. track being washed out near the high board fence. Water began to recede March 28, and damage was estimated at $100,000.

Compared to 1913, this flood was but a drop in the bucket, though considerable trouble was encountered. The Mirror published on March 29, when the flood was at its worst, with type being set by operators who had to wear boots, there being eight inches of water on the floor. The flood puzzled the old timers for there had been no severe thaws nor rainstorms. West

Letters to the Editor

Dear Citizens:

I have noticed in recent issues of the Times-Mirror that married teachers in our school system have requested an increase in salary. I believe there should be some way to grant it for the following reasons:

First, these public servants have spent long years of preparation for their profession. In times of inflation such as these they are not at liberty to increase the charge for their services. They must request others to do so. As a rule teachers are not overpaid and most of them could have gained entrance to lucrative professions with little or no further expenditure of time and money on educational training. Now they are especially not well paid when wages and prices generally have gone up considerably.

Second, I hear sometimes of the problems which face the teachers in their homes as they try to raise their families and make possible an education for their children. Seems strange that in this day of "glorious handouts" that those charged with making great impressions upon our youth should have to scratch to make ends meet.

Third, these married teachers have established homes in this community and many of them are seeking to meet a God-given responsibility of raising a family. Perhaps the single teachers need more money but I am certain that

Our Boys Attend Church

Men in the nation's armed forces attend service voluntarily and regularly, Bishop Henry K. Sherrill, head of the Episcopal Church's Army and Navy Commission asserts. His Commission selects, trains and equips Episcopal Chaplains, of whom nearly 200 are now in service with military, naval and air forces.

teachers with families do. There is nothing more important than families. All the other plans and work which men may devise and do will go for naught if in the commotion we fail to raise up a coming generation of fine children. I think that people who establish homes and raise families should be encouraged by our system of government and economics, not penalized. Our local and national governments will be facing this matter soon but why wait? Did some one say "taxes"? Well, we seem to find ways of raising money for almost every other sane and insane idea which crosses the mind of man. Did some one say "laws"? Well, sometimes they need a bit of changing to meet the needs of the times.

A fellow citizen,
Edward K. Rogers

NEW BEST SELLER

The best selling book in America today has not been reviewed in the literary supplements or selected as the outstanding publication of the month.

It is the Red Cross First Aid book, and it's even outselling the Bible at the present time.

More than nine million copies have come off the press since Pearl Harbor, and the printers are trying to step up their production beyond the current 100,000 a day.

Red Cross headquarters estimate the book's readers are enrolling in first-aid training courses at the rate of 40,000 a day. The Warren county chapter reports that 425 women are enrolled in local classes, along with 300 participating in the nursing instructions.

Such words as tourniquet and pressure point and traction splint are finding their way into our everyday vocabulary.

These figures should help to quiet the charge of "complacency," at least in one phase of our war effort.
They indicate there are, throughout the country, as well as right here in Warren, persons who realize that "it can happen here," and who will be able to meet the emergency when and if the bombers come.

"Y" officials are to be commended for making it possible for people of the community to hear such an outstanding lecturer as Major George Fielding Eliot who appeared at the Woman's Club last evening.

In view of events of the past few months it would seem that the sponsors of the Allegheny Hiking Club must have had some kind of a premonition when they formed the group.

Service stations in Warren county are closing Sundays to help conserve gas, but their efforts will be in vain if every motorist fills up today for a long joy ride tomorrow.

Departure of that second war-time Selective Service contingent from Warren Friday reminds again of the importance of keeping letters going to those in the service.

Harmony doesn't appear to be in the dictionary of either major political party in Pennsylvania at the moment.

Advance spring tip for local Victory gardeners:
Label each garden and then you'll know what you planted that isn't coming up.

Right now the crying need of most of the female population of Warren is spring clothes.

Less driving should make it possible for more people to attend Sunday church services.

About time for the first trailing arbutus!

LENTEN SERMONETTE

"LORD, WHAT WILT THOU HAVE ME TO DO?"
Rev. Jack P. Boyd, Kinzua Methodist Church

As we rapidly approach this Easter season with the world in such a chaotic state, what would be more appropriate than for you and I to humbly bow before God and ask Him the same submissive question Saul (or Paul, as he was later called) asked Him that morning on his way to Damascus: "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?"

Never before has the world looked to Christianity as its "only way out" as much as it is today. You and I, therefore, who call ourselves Christians, must be at our best spiritually if we are to be of service to the Christ we acclaim. If one is to be at his or her best for the organization, etc., that they uphold, he or she must be completely in favor with their every belief. For us, then, to be of the greatest use to Christianity, we must really really be Christ-like. To be Christ-like, we must be submissive, and, like Paul, ask the Lord what He would have us to do, and then do it.

When "Uncle Sam" sent our boys over to fight the Japs, they didn't go without guns, etc. They were going into a hard battle, so they went equipped. Paul, in his letter to the Ephesians, said we are to "Put on the whole armor of God." The boys of our navy don't expect the beauty of their uniforms to win their battles. The air force knows that just because they have planes that will do more than 500 M. P. H.
or so, that it doesn't mean they will be victor in every battle.

What a lesson we as Christians can learn from that. Just the "breastplate of righteousness" is not enough. If we only have the "helmet of salvation," we can't very well stop the "fiery darts of the wicked." The "sword of the Spirit" alone is not sufficient protection.

The suffering of Christ can be more real, more personal, to us this Easter if we ask, as Paul did, with emphasis upon the word me, "Lord, what wilt thou have ME to do?" and then "put on the whole armor of God" and do the task the Lord asks us to do.

WASHINGTON IN WARTIME

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—A young Democratic congressman from Oklahoma who has strung along with the administration on most matters but has been sniping away at non-essential government spending for the three years that he has been in office, has finally got himself a cause that is making talk on the Hill and may even get results.

Rep. A. S. Mike Monroney is waging an almost one-man campaign to do away with what he describes as the Department of Agriculture's unnecessary "Pullman car farmers"—department officials and employees who do a lot of train traveling.

HIS goal is to cut the department's $16,000,000 travel and per diem allowance appropriation in half for the next fiscal year.
His method is tedious—but it's the only method that could be used. He's trying to cut the $16-000,000 block in half by chipping off a few thousands here, a few there. Each stroke on the chisel requires a special amendment.
There would have to be more than 40 of them.

For example, one of the amendments would cut the forest service travel expense from $573,000 to $563,100, a saving of only $9-900.

When Monroney started bringing his amendments to the floor, the House showed a marked lack of interest, so much so that it was difficult for him to get more than a 5-minute debate at the start.
Congressional leaders were so disinterested that some left the floor when the vote was taken and Monroney's first amendment lost by only six votes, administration leaders sat up and took notice.

The fight has just started, Mon-roney says. If the trend continues against him on the separate amendments, he plans to drop them an overall amendment to make a blanket slash of $8,000,000 in the account.

Where the congressman caught the defense of the appropriation short was that there is no breakdown of the travel allowances other than by agencies and no way of proving in advance that the allowances are absolutely necessary.

KNOWING Monroney has generally favored administration farm legislation, I asked him how he hit upon this particular item.
"In studying the budget I came upon this item for $16,000,000 for travel by agriculture department.
This is, of course, exclusive of the expense and maintenance of government owned cars. I got to thinking that there are some states whose income tax payments to the government don't equal that much. I looked that up and I found that there were 16 states, not one of which in 1941 paid in $16,000,000 in income taxes to the government."

"Without going into the travel needs of the department at that point, it seemed to be that something must be wrong somewhere if the department was spending more for train and per diem travel than the federal income tax revenue from any one of 16 states."

"When I found that the postoffice department, with its vast inspection system, etc., spent only $5,367,000 for travel last year, I decided to go to work on this. It may be small item measured in terms of the billions for defense.
But the people pay their taxes in comparatively small amounts, and outside of war expenditures now, it seems to me that's how we ought to spend them."

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Lauritz Melchior, mighty Segfried of the Met, sends in a note. He wants to explain why he ignores certain instructions laid down by the great Wagner himself when he sings Parsifal.

Every year, when Melchior sings Parsifal, there is one scene in the first act when he leaves the stage. Wagner thought Parsifal should remain on the stage.
Students of Wagner, horrified at this flouting of tradition, never fail to lambast the good-natured Dane.

NOW Parsifal is coming up again, and the thoughtful Melchior wants to point out a few little matters in advance so that the critics won't be horrified and graved all over again for as usual, he plans to leave the stage, just as he always has left it.
Wagner or no, here is his note:

"Each year around this time with the regularity of the seasons, three major events take place in my life—my income tax, Parsifal at the Met and the subsequent observation of the music critic concerning my departure from the stage during the first tempo-scene of the opera.

These comments varied as they are, have a single characteristic in common. They all decry the fact that in leaving the stage

I am thus flouting a tradition 'of long standing'.

"Allow me to explain my position, which in this case, is behind the wings. Just as you yourselves have discussed the matter so did my good friend Artur Bodanzky (now dead) and I. Mr. Bodanzky reached the conclusion, which in the interest of clarity might be summed up by the phrase, 'A loyalty Parsifal offense is better than one that is hoarse for Siegffried the next day.'"

"ROMANTIC drafts inconsiderate winds that blow in from the 7th avenue entrance of the Metropolitan stage when the scenery is being sent over for "Bodanzky decided against the first because he felt I should have the cold reception of the critics rather than gripe with a soupcon of pneumonia. I admit it took a great deal of courage at first. Certainly I meant braving the trail-merely bowed to an older tradition, one that began with man himself—the tradition of 'The Common Cold.'"

ST. JOE'S ARE ELIMINATED IN CATHOLIC PLAY

Williamsport, March 21.—(P)—Eastern Pennsylvania's domination of the state Catholic High school basketball championship was threatened today as the annual classic moves into the semi-finals.

Elimination of Defending Champion St. Joseph's of Oil City left Pittsburg North High the task of fighting off the challenge of three eastern quintets eager to give their section its first title in the five years the tourney has been held.

Philadelphia La Salle showed its class in blasting Oil City out of the running with a decisive 42-22 triumph featuring last night's opening round.

The exhibition overshadowed Pittsburg's 48-22 win over Easton. Allentown Central's 39-25 trouncing of St. Mary's and the 9-15 lacing St. Joseph of Williamsport handed DuBois.

Credited with the tournament's initial victory, Pittsburg also got its first call in the semi-finals (2 p. m.) with Williamsport the opponent. La Salle and Allentown tangled afterwards. The winners decide the championship tonight.

SUGAR ROBINSON FLATTENS RUBIO IN 7TH SESSION

New York, March 21.—(P)—Ray Robinson, the welterweight valloper from Harlem, owns the longest winning streak in boxing today but he had to unlimber all the artillery at his command to stop Norman Rubio and keep his record clean in last night's punishing party at Madison Square Garden.

For six rounds the crowding, crouching Rubio took everything Robinson had to offer and reciprocated with an equal dose of dynamite, although he injured his left hand in the opening frame and an X-ray examination later disclosed a fractured metacarpal bone.

Rubio came up, bleeding badly from a deep gash over his left eye, only to be staggered by a terrific left hook a split second before the end of the round—and that was all. Referee Arthur Donovan, getting the nod from Chairman John J. Phelan of the New York State Athletic Commission, called it off before the man with the bell had a chance to signal the start of the eighth.

RETRIEVING GOLF BALLS FROM WATER HAZARDS NOW BIG BUSINESS: TALE OF HOW ALSAB FAILED TO EXIST

The rubber crisis has boosted the retrieving of golf balls from water hazards into the realm of big business which has received official recognition from the Professional Golfers' Association. Fred Corcoran, a tournament manager for the PGA, has entered an agreement with a trio of men who have retrieved as many as 75,000 lost balls in a single day. Their salvage operations in water holes on golf links averages about 500,000 balls a year. They use a diver's helmet fed by a gasoline-driven air pump, and, if the pickings are good, move in a dredge that lifts balls by the hundreds from their hiding places. They estimate that some golf courses are graveyards to as many as 1,000,000 lost balls in water holes today, and any number have up to 500,000. The PGA tournament director has entered an agreement with the three—J. C. Raney, Paul Thills of Miami, and Raney's son-in-law, R. E. Miles of California—to work with club professionals throughout the country on one of three plans: The club to receive a percentage of the retrieved balls, receive a flat sum for the concession, or employ the retrieving crew and take all balls recovered. If this plan proves effective, golfers may not have to hide their sticks for the duration, after all.

We've had this story about Alsab for some time, and holding it seems the wrong thing, since the longer we've waited for an opportune moment, the more trouble the bargain colt has found. So here's a story of a horse that's unpredictable as a racer, about how he almost didn't live to be a race horse. If it hadn't been for a lady, a gentleman and a medicine, there wouldn't have been an Alsab. At birth he was a sickly, scrawny colt. Ordinary nourishment aided him but little, and as the weeks wore along, he became emaciated and appeared to be dying of malnutrition. Bob Smith, then his trainer, had tried all kinds of medicines without success. When a veterinarian finally felt the colt should be destroyed, Mrs. Sloan, who owned him, and Smith decided to try calling on Emergency Hospital in Washington, D. C. for a cure which had done wonders for children. The medicine was viosterole, and doctors wouldn't guarantee results for a horse, but it brought health to Alsab. Thus, he became king of the two-year-olds last year and now is preparing to bid for three-year-old honors. However, judging by his early performances this year, maybe another dose of this viosterole wouldn't hurt Al Sabath's astonishing horse.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR. (Wide World Sports Columnist)

New York, March 21.—You may argue that it isn't basketball, but this two-points-a-minute stuff really gets the fans... at the Garden the other night a guy who would walk out of a 1-0 ball game in the seventh inning saw Toledo bust the scoring record, then said: "Let's stick around and watch Rhode Island do it, too..." Rhod Holt, the Atlanta Constitution sports writer who turned down a $5,500 publicity job to enlist in the navy, leaves today for San Diego, Calif... Ev Morris of the New York Herald-Tribune also reports to the navy today... William (T-bone) Mahoney, Notre Dame's youthful track coach, is the son of an old-time Arizona gold prospector. They say he has some pretty good prospects, too.

Hoop-La Odds—and Same Ends
The illness of Jack (Chapple) Blackburn, who has pneumonia, gives Jimmy Johnston a chance to point out that he tries to give his fighters the same kind of confidence in J. J. J. that Joe Louis has in Chapple... Abe Simon has it, says Jimmy, so that's another point in favor of "Our Abraham" and against Louis for next Friday's tussle... The Detroit fair grounds plans to run flat races over a turf course next summer. Only other U. S. tracks that have this kind of layout are Hialeah and Arlington park... Cleveland hockey players voted down a proposition to borrow players from teams that had been eliminated from the American league playoffs so their team would be at full strength. They figured the additions would mean too many cuts in the playoff dough.

ROSE HAND HITS RECORD 561 IN LADIES LEAGUE

With games of 180-193-188, Mrs. Rex Hand last night set a new individual total of 561 in the Arcade Ladies' League as she led the potent Harriett-Byrds to another easy triumph, a four-point victory over the collar-dwelling Steins.

The Byrds piled up 2381 pins against 1854 for their victims in annexing the quartet of markers, while Millers were claiming a clean sweep over Printz, 2330 to 2009. Benner led the winners with a 216 first game and a 513 total.

ROLL-OFF NEEDED

The Harriett-Byrds finished first in both halves of the Arcade Ladies' League this year, the hoop closing last night. Because of this, the team with next highest number of points was to have met the Harriett-Byrds. However, Printz and Miller teams ended in a tie for this honor, necessitating a roll-off next Friday night before the challenger for the crown can be decided.

In the Arcade K. of C. League, Notre Dame held hot to win a three-point decision from Santa Clara, as Benny Scalise dropped 576 to lead the way. Holy Cross and Fordham split as the Crusaders took a first game point with a huge margin, but relinquished the next two and managed to salvage the total pins mark.

At the Coneywango Club the Bjers were blanked by the McClures as the latter club cashed in for a bulging 2797 total to 2465 for the losers.
Last night's honor roll scores included:
At Arcade—Men—S. Benardi 211, B. Scalise 219; Ladies—Link 199, Johnson 168, Hand 193, Nelson 177, Printz 175, Benner 216; at Coneywango—Rice 224.

SHOW BOAT GIRL By ROBERTA COURTLAND

Chapter 12 Plot by Dolores

APPALED, Melissa stood still, and before she could escape, Alice looked up and saw her. Instantly Alice jerked erect and her white face was convulsed by the effort to check her tears.

"I'm terribly sorry, Alice—I wasn't snooping, honestly," said Melissa in a swift, abject apology. "I just wanted to ask you for something—and I didn't realize that I was making so quietly you couldn't hear me."

Alice sniffed, blew her nose vigorously and said unsteadily, "It's all right, Mel. I'm glad it was you that caught me off-center instead of that hell-cat of a Dolores! Sorry I stopped over. Just forget it, will you, babe?"

"Of course," answered Melissa instantly, and then in a little warm rush of words she said swiftly, "I'm terribly sorry you're unhappy, Alice. I don't suppose there's anything I can do, but if there is, you know how glad I'd be—"

Alice managed a grin that contained a faint semblance of her usual gaiety. "Thanks, Mel. I know you would," she answered. "But there's not much anybody can do. It's just that—well, I guess I'm homesick for my baby! Darn it, why wouldn't I be? He's only eight months old and he grows up without his mother around, and—well, a baby only grows up once, and—it's only right that his mother should have the fun of watching him do it, isn't it?"

"Of course!" Melissa was vigorous about it. "But I didn't even know you had a baby, Alice." "Yes, I do," said Alice grimly. "Our agent tried to tell us we were a couple of fools when we decided to turn down all contracts for a year while we retired and had a baby. He said we could never 'come back.' We were at the top of the heap, dancing in the swankiest New York night spots, and they wanted us for a movie."

"But I'm twenty-six and I didn't want to wait longer for a baby, so I persuaded Hugh it would be all right. Well, we had some money saved up and invested, and we thought we had the world by the tail on a downhill drag!"

She paused and wiped her eyes again and sniffed. "But it didn't work out that way. Funny, things seldom do, I guess," she went on after a moment as though it relieved her. "I had rather a bad time of it when Skipper came. And then I couldn't get back to work as soon as I had planned, and our agent was so busy saying, 'I told you so,' that he didn't try very hard to find anything for us, and—well, we wound up here. We've kept the baby a secret because it seems patens of night-clubs, according to managers and booking agents, don't think a dancer with a baby is 'glamorous'—God save the mark!"

"Alice, that's terrible. Where is your baby?" asked Melissa, burning with pity and sympathy for the other girl.

"My mother's taking care of him. Oh, he's being well cared for, I know—only I miss him so, darned bad!" She set her teeth hard against the tears that threatened her. After a moment she looked up at Melissa and said straightly, "Keep all this under your hat, will you, youngster? If that cat, Dolores, found out about it, she'd broadcast it so that we'd have a still more difficult time getting another job, agents and managers being what they are!"

"Of course I won't tell anybody—only I think it's a shame you can't have the baby here on the boat with you!" said Melissa vigorously.

Alice grinned and looked more nearly her old, insouciant self. "Well, I'm not sure that it's exactly the atmosphere in which to bring up an infant, at that," she admitted.

Three's A Crowd
"OF COURSE I don't know just what the object is in your sitting here like this," said Dolores cool, insolent voice above their absorbed heads. "If you are really fishing, you might be interested to know there's a fish on your line. The pole is bent almost double."

Alice sat up and stared at the bobbing cork with wide, startled eyes. She looked up at Dolores and then at Melissa and said a finger against her lip in a "shush" gesture. "Be quiet and may-be he'll go away," she whispered dramatically. "He's making a big mistake. He doesn't really want to be caught—he just got in here by error."

Dolores snapped harshly. "Oh, don't be a fool!" and walked away.

Alice landed the fish, shivered a little, carefully unhooked the struggling creature and slid him back into the water, where with a grateful flip of his tail he sped away.

"And let that be a lesson to you not to go around snapping at everything that looks good to eat," Alice called after him.

Randy, coming along the deck towards them, chuckled as he greeted them. "I'm driving in to town on an errand or two—like to go along?" he asked them both, but his eyes were on Melissa with an almost pleading look.

"I'd love it," she answered instantly, while Alice pleaded lazily as her excuse for not going. Melissa sped away to dress for the trip to town. When she came back, it was to find Randy waiting in the car beside the tiny pier. But her heart stumbled and fell flat on its face as she saw that Dolores, slim and cool and smart in pale blue linen and a shady white hat, sat beside him. For a moment Melissa fought her tears. She didn't want to go if Dolores was going. But that was childish and she couldn't on the spur of the moment think of a graceful way of evading the trip. And so, trying very hard not to display her disappointment, she climbed into the car while Dolores, smiling sweetly, graciously slid closer to Randy to make room for her.

Dolores was in excellent spirits. Obviously she was crowing a bit at having spoiled any chance Melissa might have had to get Randy to herself for the drive. Melissa was too sunk in her own disappointment to be conscious that Randy was a bit curt with Dolores or that he did not seem at all delighted at her little affectionate terms or proprietary gestures.

Tea For Several
REACHING the city, Randy parked the car near an office building and excused himself to attend to some business. There was nothing for the two girls to do but sit in the car, waiting for Randy's return.

Dolores didn't bother to talk to Melissa. She said, however, when resting her hands upon it, as she looked out into the hot, sunny street, humming a little song. And Melissa was perfectly willing to be as silent.

A tall young man coming toward them from the office building greeted them with every countenance of delight, his eyes lingering on Melissa.

"Hello, you two," he greeted them, and Melissa recognized Jimmy Marston. "Ace sent me out to tell you that he's going to be tied up for an hour or more. He and Dad are up to their ears in skullduggery of some sort—and I am to have the honor of taking you two fair females to tea! Please look very excited and very thrilled."

"But we are, of course—only Melissa's shy!" said Dolores sweetly and warmly. "How very nice of you to take pity on us."

"It's a pleasure," Jimmy beamed happily. "My car's right over here. We'll leave Ace's here so he can join us."

He took them to the city's smartest tea rendezvous, and Melissa, looking about her, would have loved it if Randy, instead of Jimmy Marston, had been with them. But Jimmy was trying hard to be pleasant and amusing and she forced herself to rise to the occasion.

Several men came over to their table, their admiring eyes on Dolores, who was gay and charming. She was, however, privately, a little silly. One or two of the men asked Dolores to dance; Jimmy and Melissa danced. It was all very gay and pleasant—until Jimmy was called away from the table and Dolores and Melissa were alone for a half under her breath, but her tone stung with its venom. "Of course it's not really any of my business, but I do think that a certain amount of decent gratitude to Ace is indicated just here. Or would you be just an ill-mannered brat from the backwoods?"

Dolores stared, wide-eyed, too puzzled for the moment to be angry. "Gratitude to Randy? Of course I'm grateful to him—I'd do anything for Randy!" she protested hotly.

"Then why not prove it by being a little more human to Jimmy Marston? His dad could make or break Ace tomorrow if he wanted to. Marston owns a three fourths interest in the River Queen, and he'd kick Ace out without a moment's hesitation if Jimmy wanted him to," said Dolores grimly.

"And if you happen to lose his temper, and who are you to snoot Jimmy Marston, anyway?"

"You mean if I am nice to Jimmy, his father will behave decently to Randy?" asked Melissa, bewildered.

"You catch on quick, don't you?" sneered Dolores.

"But Randy doesn't want me to be nice to Jimmy. He didn't want me to dance with him the other night—" Melissa stammered.

"That's because Ace bends over backward about a fool thing called pride," snapped Dolores crossly. "He'd starve, or he'd kick out of business, before he'd ask a woman's help. But I know what I'm talking about."

REMEMBER WAY BACK IN '41?

Remember the good old days when folks used to pay their income taxes in one lump sum? They used to kick about it for a couple of days and then forget it until the next year. Now, it's too worthy a cause to kick about and too big to forget. Maybe the March installment caught you unawares. Start now to save for June 15th, September 15th, December 15th, and next year. It's quite important, and regular deposits made at this bank will take a lot of sting out of the future payments.
